

SEND A CHILD TO THE THEATRE

Mirandy and Brother Wind

Saturday, March 5, 2011 The Atlas Performing Arts Center, Washington DC

Adapted by Michael J. Bobbitt, from the book "Mirandy and Brother Wind"
by Patricia C. McKissack

The Foundation for the Advancement of Music and Education, Inc. (FAME), in partnership with the Prince George's Reading Council, is sponsoring A Family Literacy Day at the Theatre, a fun educational bus trip for 180 at-risk children. They will experience the world premiere of Mirandy and Brother Wind, a new African-American children's musical. Mirandy and Brother Wind, produced by the Adventure Theatre and the African Continuum Theatre, is adapted from the Caldecott Honor and Coretta Scott King Award winning book of the same name.

To ensure that this event is rich and fulfilling, we are asking you to make a tax-deductible donation to help enrich and expose a young person to musical theatre. Your donation will also help cover trip expenses: transportation, tickets to the show, a book for each child, and a snack at the end of the trip.
